

TAMMANY CRUSHED AT POLLS

HEAVY PLURALITIES CAST FOR MITCHELL AND SULZER

Over Nine Tons of Bullion Shipped Today by Tonopah

Within a fraction of ten tons of bullion represents the grand aggregate sent out by Tonopah mines yesterday and the previous day. The actual figures of the Wells Fargo company are nine tons and 1259 pounds, with a minting value of $214,053.13. This bullion went out in bars comprising gold and silver values. The Belmont was the largest single shipper and the quantity sent out was next to the record mill output of September 6, 1913, when 213,000 ounces went to the smelter, with a valuation of $164,000. The next best shipment was recorded today, when 94 bars, weighing 199,963 ounces, worth $153,971.51, was contributed to the world's supply. Before this the record stood at $133,652.75 for the shipment of June 27, 1913.

The total shipments were as follows:

	Ounces.	Value.
Belmont Development company	199,963	$153,971.51
Tonopah Extension Mining company	32,800	25,000.00
West End Consolidated Mining company	32,106	24,731.82
MacNagura Mining company	14,400	10,350.00

PRESIDENTS OF THREE BOROUGHES OPPOSED TO THE ADMINISTRATION OF TAMMANY WOMEN VOTE FOR FIRST TIME IN ILLINOIS

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Each recapitulation today affirmed the crushing defeat of Tammany at yesterday's election. Not only was Mitchell elected by a plurality of 121,209, but many upstate districts administered a rebuke to the Tammany democracy control since the days of Governor Hughes.

William Sulzer was elected to the assembly less than three weeks after impeachment. Many legislators who voted to impeach were defeated. As a result the house will be anti-Tammany, and the assembly, according to incomplete returns, will be composed of 85 republicans, 17 progressives and 48 democrats. Many of the latter are said to be progressives of independent tendencies.

In New York the fusionists elected William A. Prendergast comptroller, George McAneny president of the board of aldermen, and kept out of Tammany's hands the presidency of Manhattan, Brooklyn and Bronx boroughs, increasing the anti-Tammany majority in the board of estimates, controls and expenditures. The fusion vote in the board will be fourteen, Tammany two. A fusion majority of aldermen were elected. Democratic congressmen were elected in the city, George W. Lof succeeding Timothy D. Sullivan, Jacob H. Cantor succeeds Francis Burton Harrison.

Democratic governors were elected in each state where that office was filled. In Massachusetts, Walsh had a plurality of 180,368; Bird, progressive, 126,677; Gardner, republican, 116,314; Foss, independent, 2817. Walsh carried into office every democratic candidate on the state ticket, with the possible exception of attorney general. Progressives hold the balance of power in the legislature, after republican control for years.

New Jersey elected Fielder governor by a plurality of about 20,000 over Stokes, republican. Democrats will control the legislature.

In Virginia, Henry C. Stuart was not opposed. Maryland elected Blair Lee, a democrat, to the senate by a plurality of about 30,000. The indications are that the democratic ticket will do equally well. The progressive vote fell off heavily. Charles P. Coady, democrat, was elected to congress in the third district.

The only republican congressman elected was C. D. Paige, in the third district of Massachusetts.

Presentiment of Death a Week Before M. M. White Was Called

That Milton M. White, the old man who died alone in his cabin, away off in the shadows of the Sawtooth range, near the county hospital, had a presentiment of death a week before it came upon him, was brought to light at the inquest held yesterday by Coroner Dunsenath. The disclosure adds greater pathos to the passing of a man generally beloved and whose last thought was of his obligations to patrons. He was not in the best of health at any time and was subject to violent attacks of asthma, but to other intents he was enjoying his average health when he sat down by lamplight and penned the following note to W. I. Bray, his chosen friend:

Tuesday, 1:20 p. m.

W. I. Bray:

Dear Brother—Kindly keep me in remembrance and should anything happen to me in the next few days take charge of my house and contents. They will be yours.

M. M. WHITE.

This note was written Tuesday, October 28, a full week before the body of the writer was found in his humble home. That he was not seriously ill at the time is attested by the fact that he was seen downtown and around his old haunts the next day. He did not call on Bray, or if he tried to find him, they failed to meet. The note was not delivered until Thursday afternoon, when Mr. Bray went to the White home and met his correspondent. He inquired how he felt and was told "I'm all right."

"No, you're not," said Bray. "You are a sick man and should go to the hospital."

White protested that he was no worse than usual, and added that he could not afford to be sick, as he had a job to finish and had repairs on his home to make.

Argument seemed useless, so Mr. Bray went to Dr. Richards and told him of the circumstances. The doctor went to see White Thursday evening and added his remonstrances to the urging of Bray, but all proved of no avail.

On Friday and Saturday Mr. Bray called at the cabin but didn't see the old man. The cabin was dark and no one appeared to be inside. Dr. Richards called again Sunday morning and expostulated with White on remaining alone without attention, but his injunctions proved unavailing, for White renewed his statement that he had work to do and he would do it. At the time Dr. Richards called White was lying on the bed with his clothes on and apparently suffering extremely.

That he was not dead early Monday morning is proven by the testimony of Ed McLaughlin, who passed on his way home at 2 o'clock and saw the door open and White inside with a light burning. "This was not unusual, as it was known that the deceased often sat up all night struggling with paroxysms of asthma, and McLaughlin continued on his course. Seven hours later Mr. Bray visited the house and found the doors closed and locked. No light was burning and all was still. He tried to get in but could not, and returned downtown and asked Dr. Richards to visit the place. The doctor called and met with the same experience. Returning, he reported the circumstance to Bray and Chief of Police Evans was summoned. Together the three returned to the house and forced an entrance, to find the old man was beyond human assistance. The body was lying across the bed. In front of him was a cracker box containing half a cup of coffee and the remains of a frugal repast. Evidently he died in the act of taking nourishment.

Dr. Richards said the cause was pneumonia, superinduced by gripe and the jury returned a verdict to that effect.

Mr. White retained a sturdy independence to the last, for when the doctor urged him to go to the hospital on Thursday evening, after telling him he had a bad case of pneumonia and that the consequences of neglect would be fatal, the old man rejoined with his customary philosophy:

"If I am to die, let me die in my own little home. I will die right here."

His wish was gratified.

Deceased was born in Mohawk, Mich., October 19, 1845, and removed to Kansas, where his early life was spent. Nothing is known of his wife and family, or the cause that led to the separation, but it was commonly understood that he was of a family in better than ordinary circumstances. A daughter is said to have kept a life policy for $10,000 paid up, but the presence of a dividend notice from the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company would seem to indicate that the insurance had not been transferred or the notice would have gone to the holder. The notification bore the date of September 24, 1913, proving the validity of the claim at that time. Deceased also told Mr. Bray that he had the paid-up policy.

The jurors empaneled by Coroner Dunsenath were D. H. Young, W. Prohock, Sam Fox, A. J. Ingersoll, John Phelan and Travis H. Lynch.

Coroner Dunsenath received a wire this morning from the insurance company at Omaha stating that the family of the deceased resides in Monroe, Mich., but no names were given and trouble is likely to be experienced in tracing their whereabouts, as the daughter is married.

TONOPAH MINE PRESIDENT IS HIGHLY GRATIFIED WITH THE OUTLOOK IN TONOPAH

J. S. Austin, president of the Tonopah Mining company, after an absence of six months from Tonopah, is highly gratified with the appearance of Tonopah in general and the property of the Tonopah Mining company in particular. So he told a representative of the Bonanza yesterday, after he had been here two days, during which time he diligently inspected the mines and mill of the company, and therefore was well qualified to speak from personal observation.

"The best development that I can say anything about is the opening of the West End ledge in the Burro claim of our company. I don't know how I could find any better news than to say that this has developed in a way that is most gratifying to us and that the conditions are most encouraging. The ledge was opened on the 600-foot level between the Mizpah and Red Plume shafts, in driving a cross-cut to explore that section of the mine. Of course, the existence of the vein was known, but it had not been uncovered, and we hope to bring about an actual production that will mean a great tonnage. The West End ledge has a general width of ten feet and two machines in the face will break ore as fast as we can handle it. The ledge is tributary to the Red Plume shaft, which will be used for hoisting. On the Sand Range we will sink to 1000 feet before beginning to drift and develop that section. We are making depth pretty fast, as the records show we sank 103 feet last month, with another record of 29 feet in one week, which, I think, is doing nicely. We expect to be at the 1000 level and complete our shaft work by the middle of December, and then will come the development."

"Has the Tonopah Mining company bought any quartz properties in California?"

"Nothing more than what has been furnished the newspapers for publication. The Bonanza has printed this, and there is nothing further to add. We have taken over a placer property and whatever has been said about properties examined by Mr. Spurr near Angels Camp you can say there is no authority for printing that story, as the mines there were rejected after an examination."

"Is the company contemplating a sale of the Tonopah Goldfield railroad, as hinted recently?"

"The best answer to that report is to say that I never heard of it until this afternoon, when I was shown a newspaper clipping that seemed to be inspired. The freight rates are not too high when you come to consider the amount of business done by the line. Of course, if we had the traffic of the Pennsylvania, we could make them less, but so far as selling, you can quote my answer."

"Do you contemplate any increase of milling or mining tonnage at the Nevada Wonder?"

"We are satisfied with that property, as it stands now, as we have ore down for a thousand feet and can boast of being the only mine on the desert that can claim that distinction. That looks like deep mining of the right kind and one that we are proud of."

NEW HOSPITAL FOR COUNTY IS TAKEN UP

OLD HIGH SCHOOL TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT BY THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

This morning the county commissioners, trustees of the schools and several parents met at the old high school for the purpose of looking over the building, which has been offered for use as a hospital. The old county hospital is too small and has long outlived its usefulness, as it is too cramped and insanitary to be occupied much longer.

The high school building was pronounced suitable, as it is well situated on a high knoll, well ventilated, with plastered walls and high ceilings, and every advantage that could be suggested.

Tomorrow morning the trustees and commissioners will hold another conference, at which terms will be discussed, and then the proposal will be submitted to a parents' meeting. This is necessary under the law where there are only three trustees.

RAVING LUNATIC SENT TO INSANE ASYLUM AT RENO

CLAIMED TO HAVE BEEN ROBBED OF $6000 WHEN FOUND BY THE POLICE.

Bertrand Kibbey, a young man of good family, from Virginia City, where he has a wife and child, was committed to the insane asylum yesterday afternoon, after examination by Dr. Richards, who pronounced him insane from overindulgence in liquor. Owing to it being a clear case of dipomania, and the fact that Kibbey showed signs of improvement this morning, there is a chance that the commitment will be reconsidered. An attendant arrived from Reno this morning and will take the patient back tomorrow, unless there is a marked change for the better and the court recalls his order. Bertrand is said to have been employed on the Virginia & Truckee railroad. He was formerly a resident of Goldfield.

Kibbey was arrested Tuesday night at the corner of Oddie and Main streets, where he was exclaiming wildly about having been held up and robbed of $6000.

It was reported at Reno yesterday that Attorney Bert McIntosh was critically ill on the coast.
